Why choose Mpirical?

Mpirical works closely with our mobile service provider clients and partners across the globe to develop content in line with industry demands.

This means you can rest assured that training is relevant, up-to-date, and sealed with a stamp of approval by some of the leading telecoms organizations worldwide.

Our catalogue of courses are designed with learners in mind, offering hands on tutorials and interactive methods so your technical teams not only understand the concepts; they know how to apply them to their projects.

With courses covering topics in 5G, emerging, as well as legacy technologies, students can benefit from over 400 hours (and growing!) of video content and reference material to support them at every point in their learning journey.
